

Dear Customers and Business Partners,

South America and Brazil in particular are rapidly expanding economies with a lot of potential for future growth. Key industries - such as automotive industries - are about to close up to common standards in Europe or North America. This requires investment in state-of-the-art production and testing equipment.

The MESSRING Systembau MSG GmbH, the number one in automotive testing equipment supplies, is pleased to announce the long-term business plan to improve the presence in Brazil in order to serve the South American market even better. This fits into our global goal to expand our network of business partners and subsidiaries and provide prompt and competent first-class consulting, short-term service support and instant access to supplies and spare parts in the local time zone.

In case of any request, question, suggestion or problem, feel free to contact
